2. Merit-based selection process

The SBS Act provides that a merit-based selection process must be followed before the appointment of a new non-executive Director to the SBS Board. An independent Nomination Panel (the Panel) established under the Australian Broadcasting Corporation Act 1983 is responsible for conducting the selection process for non-executive Director appointments to the SBS Board.

The Panel must place advertisements inviting written applications by persons seeking to be appointed to the position. The Panel is required to assess all applicants against the selection criteria and on the basis of merit. Under subsection 43(2) of the SBS Act, the Panel's selection process is based on merit if:

- (a) an assessment is made of the comparative suitability of the applicants for the duties of the non-executive Director, using a competitive selection process; and
- (b) the assessment is based on the relationship between the applicants' experience, skills and competencies and the experience, skills and competencies genuinely required for the duties of the non-executive Director; and
- (c) the assessment focuses on the capability of the applicants to achieve outcomes related to the duties of the non-executive Director; and
- (d) the assessment is the primary consideration in nominating the candidates for that appointment.

The principle of merit will be interpreted broadly in the merit-based appointment process. Formal qualifications and traditional work experience will form only one element of the Panel's assessment of an applicant's experience, skills and competencies. Non-traditional activities and career paths may also be recognised and valued as suitable qualifications which contribute to an applicant's overall suitability for appointment. In its assessment, the Panel may also consider other issues raised by the Minister for Communications (the Minister), such as gender, diversity and geographic balance on the Board.

The selection process usually involves an initial assessment of written applications, interviews of shortlisted applicants, and referee and probity checks for those selected for further consideration.

The Panel is required to provide the Minister with a written report on the outcome of the selection process, which must contain a shortlist of at least 3 candidates and a comparative assessment of those candidates, for consideration by the Government.

The appointment of non-executive Directors to the SBS Board are made by the Governor-General, on the recommendation of the Government. Noting the significance of appointments to the SBS Board, this process takes several months to complete.
