Black spots in the mobile telephone network are disrupting business. City folk expect to be able to contact farmers in the same way they do everyone else they are doing business with. The black spots along the Snowy mountains highway between Cooma and Adaminaby are very surprising and detrimental to business. The lack of mobile coverage also compromises medical safety, particularly when Telstra is not maintaining the copper analogue lines. We are regularly without any form of telecommunication access. It's frustrating and a real safety concern with aged parents living remotely. Please fix the back spots, bring country area's telecommunications in line with city.

Ironically I've given you my mobile number for contact, but you'll have to wait till I'm in mobile reception to contact me. #nojoke #pleasekeeptrying
