

I'm a GP in rural Australia and am not able to get mobile service at my workplace or on the way to work. This impacts on my ability to provide care.

Many of my patients don't have access to mobile service at home or have insufficient service to be able to use Telehealth and many face to face specialist services to our region have ceased post pandemic.

This impacts on the already poor health outcomes for those living in rural and remote areas.

Equity shouldn't stop at the borders of towns

Dr Kate Graham

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]