Short comment

Both sides of Govt have left the people in the bush down yet again. The major telcos promised the people that the closing down of the 3G network would not compromise the existing coverage, if anything it would improve.

govt should be fining them 1 million dollars per week until they fix it.

Telstra etc should be subsisting our purchase of Starlink equipment because of our loss of service.

we can no longer call 000 in many instances where we could before but when Optus has a short one-hour breakdown in the services all hell breaks loose
