

I believe that the Board of CASA bears as much responsibility for the body's current problems as does the Executive Director. They all have turned a blind eye to the obvious misdirection of the organisation in spite of input from the industry. All Board members, including its Chairman, should be removed and replaced by more appropriate and respected individuals.

Further the senior executives in the legal branch have for years played a key role in ensuring that CASA's interaction with the industry was unethical. These individuals also must be replaced if CASA is to gain the respect that it should have from the industry.

Sincerely
